PLEASE NOTE: at the end of this Bulletin is a template. If you want the information included in future Bulletins, please copy and use this template. If the information is not sent to us in the template, we will not include it. DEADLINE FOR SUBMISSIONS IS ON THE 24TH OF EVERY MONTH.

Thank you.

Monthly Newsletter for deafscotland Members

deafscotland Membership

The deadline for renewing membership has passed. If you have received this from a source that is not deafscotland, it will be because you have not paid your membership. If you wish to be re-instated as a member, you will have to contact us by Friday 13 September 2019 to make arrangements to pay your dues.

For further information on the benefits of deafscotland membership, go to our website: <http://deafscotland.org/who-we-are/our-membership/>

deafscotland Training Programme

We offer a wide range of training: face-to-face and online – in areas such as deaf awareness; human rights; working with integrated boards; and communication for all.

Remember our members get a discount. For further information, please go to our website: <http://deafscotland.org/what-we-do/training/>.

If you are interested in one of our courses, please email us and we will put your name on our waiting list. Once we have enough people interested in a course, we will send out dates.

Bespoke training

Remember we also offer bespoke / tailored training – this is very popular with our members.

If you have more than 10 members of staff you would like to receive training, then why not contact us to arrange a course delivered using examples specific to the work that you do. You might not have 10 members of staff, but you could share the cost with a partner organisation, so that both organisations benefit.

To request a meeting to discuss (which can be done through Skype/Facetime if you are not in the Glasgow / Edinburgh are) by emailing us: admin@deafscotland.org. If you are a BSL user, please do use contactSCOTLAND-BSL to contact us.

Your training / events

As a member organisation, do you offer training and want to publicise it? Also hosting any events? Then tell us and we will include them in the Bulletin, on our website calendar and on our social media.

BSL and Lipreading Classes around Scotland

We are in the process of developing our website. We have imported the Calendar again so we can advertise members' events on the website - <https://deafscotland.org/what-we-do/events/calendar/>

We get a lot of inquiries by phone and email from members of the public and professionals looking for BSL classes and deaf people looking Lipreading classes. We would like to include members' BSL/Lipreading class information on the website calendar so that people know what is available across Scotland. Contact us and we will include your classes and details.

Cross Party Group on Deafness

The next meeting will be held on Wednesday 4 December 2019 at the Scottish Parliament, Edinburgh at 1.00pm-2.30pm. There is more information available on the Scottish Parliament website: <https://www.parliament.scot/msps/deafness.aspx>

If you would like to join the CPGD, please email the convenor, Mark Griffin MSP and copy us in.

Disclosure: Protecting Vulnerable Groups (PVG)

Do you or a member of your staff require a PVG? We can help.

We can countersign disclosure applications on behalf of other organisations which may be too small to become signatories themselves or for individuals who are self-employed and need to have a disclosure to work in their chosen field.

You might need to join the PVG (Protection of Vulnerable Groups) Scheme as you will be doing “regulated” work – working directly with children and/or protected adults, often in an educational or caring role.

For more information about PVGs and to book an appointment go to: <http://deafscotland.org/disclosure-for-working-with-protected-groups/>

Congratulations Hazel...Way to go!

Dr Hazel McFarlane, disability researcher and activist, Policy and Implementation Officer and See Hear Lead for South Ayrshire Council, and co-facilitator for our Inclusive Communication and Accessible Information workshop/training, has been named in the Disability Power List 2019 of the Most Influential Disabled People in the UK. Our Cycling Survey

We launched our cycling survey in August and while we have had a number of people who have taken part, we think there might be many more people out there who have a hearing loss and who go cycling. We would be most appreciative if you share this with your own members, customers, service users, friends and family who have a hearing loss and who ride a bike! Thanks.

The closing date has been extended until Monday 11 November 2019.

From The Mental Welfare Commission for Scotland

New website for the Mental Welfare Commission

The Mental Welfare Commission has updated its website with aims of making it more user friendly, and including a wider range of information.

Kate Fearnley, executive director (engagement & participation) at the Commission said:

‘People tell us they value the information on our site, and we wanted to enhance that and make it easier to use. The structure of the site was becoming outdated and in need of replacement, particularly around security.

‘We’ve made a number of improvements in the design which should make it easier to use. We also plan to increase the amount of information we publish on what people with lived experience, and relatives and carers, tell us about their views on care and treatment.’

The main changes in the new website are:

- New quick routes into the site for people whose interest is personal, and for people whose interest is professional. While the whole site remains accessible to everyone, analytics told us that these two audiences are more likely to be looking for specific information. For example, professionals regularly seek legal advice or forms, for example, and people with a personal interest often look for information on particular diagnoses, or about a patient's rights.
- A new section called What People Tell Us, where we will publish reports that gather the views and experiences of people from around Scotland who have spoken to our engagement and participation team about different aspects of care and treatment.
- An improved search function.

The new site also uses a slightly modernised branding for the Commission, which reflects our current work and means that documents can be published from the site more efficiently, for people wishing to have hard copies.

Person centred care plans - new guide for mental health and learning disability services

The Mental Welfare Commission today published a new guide for nurses and other clinical staff in Scotland on creating care plans for patients with mental ill health, dementia or learning disability.

A care plan describes the care and treatment an individual should receive. It is a written record of needs, actions and responsibilities.

Care plans are a crucial part of supporting and helping the process of recovery.

Alison Thomson, executive director (nursing) at the Mental Welfare Commission, said:

'We wrote this new guide because when visiting services we increasingly find that the quality of care plans, and the level of participation by the patient or person using services, vary considerably.

'Everyone using mental health, dementia and learning disability services has the right to a care plan which is personal to them.

‘They also have a right to be involved in developing their care plan, to know what is in their care plan, and to be involved in writing their care plan.

‘We hope that this new guide will be shared widely and used by services across Scotland to help improve care plans, and to ensure that the needs and aspirations of people using services have been taken into account.’

The guide was produced after wide consultation. The Commission heard from almost 150 people at a series of meetings across the country, including people with experience of mental illness, relatives/carers, people with dementia or acquired brain injury and advocacy workers.

The Commission also held a specific event where 60 people including nursing staff, relatives/carers, educators and people with experience of mental ill health worked together to agree a view of what a good care plan should look like.

A copy of the guide can be found here.

Dreaming of an Inclusive Communication Nation

Wow – I was delighted to win the Inclusive Communication Champion of the Year 2019 award this year at deafscotland / DES conference.

Establishing communication equality by securing an inclusive communication nation is a personal ambition and a big priority for the Royal College of Speech and Language Therapists (RCSLT) where I work.

By way of thanks for my award – and with the view of working alongside deafscotland members – I thought I should let you know about some of the things RCSLT are up to on the inclusive communication front.

1. Supporting Social Security Scotland to embed inclusive communication best practice in every communication it does, every day, everywhere and in every way – in leaflets and posters, in letters, on line, on the phone, inside and outside buildings.

2. Advising Scottish Southern Electric Network about how they can help people who communicate differently register for a priority service recovery when electricity goes down anywhere in Scotland.

3. Setting up an Inclusive Communication Collaborative with others such as deafscotland to campaign to make Scotland an Inclusive Communication Nation. I hope this will include the roll out of the Communication Access Symbol and relevant standards across Scotland. See <https://www.rcslt.org/policy/uk-wide#section-3> for more information on this.

I'll keep deafscotland members posted on developments but please get in touch if you want to know more now.

From contactSCOTLAND-BSL VRS For All and 24/7

contactSCOTLAND-BSL is the Scottish Government's fully funded online BSL/English interpreting video relay service (VRS) delivered by Sign Language Interactions (SLi).

From Saturday 1 June 2019, contactSCOTLAND-BSL will be:
VRS For All and 24/7 – 365 days a year.

For the past 3 years Deaf and Deafblind BSL users were able to contact any public body in Scotland as well as any of the 1,000s of third sector/voluntary organisations between the hours of 8am and 12 midnight.

Although ground-breaking when launched in 2016, and a first for any country in the UK (and further afield), it was felt that access could be further improved by incorporating the ability to contact anyone without restrictions. Either by number or by time.

Quote from Clare Haughey MSP

“...Now the service is being enhanced so that, for the first time, users will be able to contact anyone they wish and at any time, 24 hours a day, 365 days a year.

I'm delighted to be able to support this innovation to help the users of the service to live as independently as possible.”

After all, it is all about equity and opportunity. Direct and independent communication to book a party for your child can be as important as calling the local council or health centre. We are extremely proud to be delivering and developing contactSCOTLAND-BSL and look forward to taking this service to the next level.

Our slogan is 'Go on, who do you want to call' Now this is so fitting and so true.

Calling government to garages, from health centres to hairdressers or from charities to Chinese takeaways the opportunities are endless.

From West Scotland Deaf Children's Society Endeavour Award

Celebrating the success of deaf children and recognising their achievements has always been a core part of our work and will continue to be into the future. Following last year's launch of the West Scotland Deaf Children's Society Endeavour Award, the time has come again to ask you for this year's nominations.

The Award is open to children and young people across our age range: 0 -25 years.

Nominations can be made by families or professionals, recognising achievement in its widest sense – triumph over adversity, sporting and academic achievement, resilience and determination or being an inspiration to others.

The Award will be presented at the West of Scotland Deaf Children's Society AGM on 2nd November 2019.

An independent judging panel will help us determine the child or young person who receives the award. The family will be notified prior to the event.

HOW DO I NOMINATE A CHILD/YOUNG PERSON?

Please email/write to us at:

wsdcs@btconnect.com

OR

West Scotland Deaf Children's Society, 281a Central Chambers, 93 Hope Street, Glasgow G2 6LD

adding ENDEAVOUR AWARD in the title and answer the following:

Name of the child/young person

D.O.B.

Please tell us why you are nominating the child/young person in no more than 100 words.

Please tell us in less than 100 words how you believe they embody and deserve the award.

Please describe the child/young person in 5 words.

Please note your name and relationship to the child/young person.

THE CLOSING DATE IS SUNDAY 13th OCTOBER! We look forward to receiving nominations and celebrating the successes and achievements of all deaf children and young people in the West of Scotland.

From Forth Valley Sensory Centre

Two appointments for Forth Valley Sensory Centre

Forth Valley Sensory Centre has welcomed two new starts this week with Linsey Stocks arriving as Groups and Activities Coordinator and Kirsty Banks taking up the role of Project Manager for Climate Challenge Fund Project; 'Making Sense of Energy Saving'.

Linsey joins from Morrisons where she was the Community Champion for Falkirk, working closely with a wide range of local schools and charities. Kirsty spent over ten years with Stirling based Town Break and has lots of experience of working with vulnerable people, including those with sensory loss.

Centre Manager Jacquie Winning said; "We are delighted to have brought in two high calibre and experienced people who have so much affinity for the needs of our Centre Users. Both these roles require great understanding and communication. We are confident that Linsey and Kirsty will continue to improve the level of support and assistance we provide for people in Forth Valley of all ages who have a sensory impairment."

Groups and Activities form a key part of Forth Valley Sensory Centre's service to blind, partially sighted, deaf and hard of hearing people in Falkirk, Stirling and Clackmannanshire. The Centre offers outreach groups as well as a wide variety of classes, including; knitting, art, self-defence, walking, curling and a conversational BSL class.

Commenting on her appointment, Linsey Stocks said; “I’m really looking forward to this challenge. As a person with hearing loss myself, I understand many of the problems that people can face. The Centre is very much about increasing confidence and supporting people to be as independent as possible. Sensory loss can quickly lead people to become isolated in their own homes, the groups and classes on offer help to prevent that, keeping people happy, active and engaged in a relaxed, social environment.”

Making Sense of Energy Saving is a new project, which aims to make information on climate change accessible to people with sensory loss. At present, little information on how to save energy, reduce carbon output and cut energy bills is available in accessible formats. Kirsty will be working across Forth Valley to help people get the support they need.

Kirsty Banks said; “Climate change is a huge topic at the moment and we are all being encouraged to do our bit and help Scotland achieve net zero carbon emissions by 2045. However, many older people also struggle with energy bills and are unaware of the steps they can take to provide more efficient heating for their homes, save energy, cut bills and help the environment at the same time. Our free, impartial advice will be available in a wide range of formats from British Sign Language to braille, helping ‘make sense’ of energy saving.”

Both roles include funding from The Scottish Government’s Climate Challenge Fund (CCF) via Greener Scotland. The CCF is a Scottish Government grant programme, managed and administered by Keep Scotland Beautiful. The CCF provides funding and support for community groups to help tackle climate change by running projects that reduce local carbon emissions.

You can find out more about the work of Forth Valley Sensory Centre, including all the groups and classes as well as energy information on the website at www.forthvalleysensorycentre.org or follow @FVSensoryCentre on Twitter and Facebook.

About Forth Valley Sensory Centre

Forth Valley Sensory Centre has been supporting people in Forth Valley with sensory impairment and their families for over 12 years. The Centre acts as a Community Hub, offering support, advice, practical help and social opportunities.

The overall objective of Forth Valley Sensory Centre, is to help people who have a sensory impairment live as independently as possible. The Centre is owned and run by Forth Valley Sensory Centre Trust which is a partnership of RNIB Scotland, Action on Hearing Loss, NHS Forth Valley, Falkirk Council and Stirling Council. The Forth Valley Sensory Centre Trust is a registered charity (SC034267) and a company limited by guarantee.

About The Climate Challenge Fund

The Climate Challenge Fund (CCF) is a Scottish Government grant programme, managed and administered by Keep Scotland Beautiful. The CCF provides funding and support for community groups to help tackle climate change by running projects that reduce local carbon emissions. The CCF has awarded over 1,100 grants since its introduction in 2008, for projects involving energy efficiency, sustainable travel, local food and resource efficiency. Total CCF funding since 2008 has exceeded £104 million.

From Alzheimer Scotland Fair Dementia Care

On Tuesday 4 June, marking Dementia Awareness Week, the Scottish Parliament debated Fair Dementia Care. We are delighted that MSPs from all parties spoke out to support our campaign. If you want to read all the speeches, you can do so by clicking here, or if you want to watch what happened, you can do so by clicking here.

In the end, a massive 53 MSPs supported the Fair Dementia Care motion. This would not have happened without the efforts of our campaign supporters asking their MSPs to back the campaign. We will now ask those MSPs to follow up on their support for the campaign in Parliament by committing to ensuring that their party supports Fair Dementia Care in their next manifesto. We can help them to take this forward by showing them the support that exists across the country for Fair Dementia Care.

From National Records Scotland Census (Amendment)(Scotland) Bill passed

New questions can be asked – but answering will be voluntary.

New voluntary questions can be asked in Scotland's 2021 Census on transgender status and history, and sexual orientation, following the passing of the Census (Amendment)(Scotland) Bill last Wednesday. The Bill will make changes to the 1920 Census Act to enable National Records of Scotland to ask these questions on a voluntary basis. The final proposed questions will be laid before the Scottish Parliament for agreement before the census takes place.

Cabinet Secretary for Culture, Tourism and External Affairs Fiona Hyslop, said:

“Our country has relied on the census for over 200 years and it remains the best way to gather the information government, councils, NHS and other users need.

“This is an important Bill that will enable questions on transgender status and history, and sexual orientation to be asked on a voluntary basis for the very first time, with no penalty for not answering them.

“It is widely accepted that there are currently data gaps on sexual orientation and trans status. Including questions on these demographics in the census will provide valuable data for public service planning purposes and will help public bodies meet duties under the Equality Act 2010.”

Paul Lowe, Registrar General for Scotland, said:

“National Records of Scotland are consulting extensively with groups all over Scotland to develop and test proposed questions to ensure they are supported by the public.

“By asking questions which reflect a modern, inclusive Scotland, we will ensure the census will continue to be a vital source of information for decades to come.”

The power to ask new questions on a compulsory basis already exists in the Census Act 1920 but refusing to answer a census question or neglecting to do so is an offence under the section 8 of the Census Act 1920. This Bill allows questions on sexual orientation and trans status and history to be asked on a voluntary basis. These questions are aimed at improving data used for public service planning purposes and will be entirely voluntary.

Background

You can read the details of the bill, including the Official Report of last Wednesday’s debate, on the Scottish Parliament’s website.

Scotland’s next census will take place on Sunday 21 March 2021, subject to the approval of the Scottish Parliament.

Plans for Scotland's Census 2021 include details on question development, privacy and confidentiality, collecting and publishing information and the legislative process.

A census is organised in Scotland every 10 years and collects information on households and individuals to inform public services, policy and research.

Scotland's Registrars General have taken responsibility for the country's census since 1861.

National Statistics Accreditation

Today we have published our report "How the National Records of Scotland is ensuring Census 2021 is trustworthy, high quality and of value to users". This is our first step towards measuring our progress against the Code and will form part of the Office for Statistics Regulation assessment.

You can now follow us on Facebook and Twitter @scotcensus2021 to keep up to date with what's happening with Scotland's Census 2021.

From the Scottish Government Social Security Directorate

The Scottish Government is planning to be responsible for the Personal Independence Payment (PIP) benefit from 2021.

We want to find out about the experiences people have when being assessed for PIP. This is so we can improve the assessment process and make it easier to understand.

We are hoping to start research as soon as possible. It should last until midway through next year sometime.

We will never give the participants name to anyone else.

We use what people tell us for research only. Nothing someone tells us will affect any the benefits they get.

We do everything we can to protect the participants identity and personal details. We will also ensure that the research session itself does not create any undue stress or anxiety. We will book BSL/English interpreters when required, who are registered with an appropriate registration body, and/or is somebody who the individual specifically requests.

Would you be able to help me find people that we can talk to?

Please contact Clare Young for more information by email:
Claire.Young@gov.scot.

From Social Security Scotland Best Start Grant School Age Payment Now Open for Applications

Social Security Scotland's new Best Start Grant School Age Payment is now open for applications on-line and by phone. Our stakeholder toolkit is also now available.

To make sure that people are aware of the payment and we get this additional money into the pockets of the families who need it we would once again appreciate if you could help raise awareness of the payment through your organisation and networks.

The payment itself will provide families in Scotland, who are on a low income, with £250 to help with the costs of a child starting school. People can apply around the time a child normally starts Primary 1 and if they get certain benefits or tax credits. For this year that means if their child is born on or between 1 March 2014 to 28 Feb 2015. Applications can be made from 3 June 2019 until 29 February 2020 either online at www.mygov.scot/best-start-grant or by contacting our Freephone helpline on 0800 182 2222. The helpline is open Monday to Friday from 8am to 6pm.

The Best Start Grant School Age Payment is the third in our Best Start Grant package of payments that is providing extra money to families in Scotland who are on a low income to help support their child during their early years. For that reason we are keen that people are aware of their entitlement and know how to apply. The assistance that you have already provided in helping promote the Best Start Grant Pregnancy and Baby and Early Learning Payments has been of enormous benefit. For instance within the first two days of the Early Learning Payment being launched in April we received over 6,000 applications. We want to build on this and with the valuable support that you provide to people and communities meaning that the payment could benefit the families you support any help you and your teams can provide in raising awareness and uptake will be indispensable.

To support you in this we have created a specific Best Start Grant School Age Payment toolkit containing materials for your use. This includes fact sheets on eligibility and how and when to apply, posters, articles that can be used in local newsletters and staff updates and social media posts. These can all be accessed on our website at <https://www.socialsecurity.gov.scot/what-we-do/stakeholder-> resources along with our previous toolkits. It would be extremely helpful if you could share this with your wider teams and networks. Also if you are able to share any posts from our social media channels @SocSecScot on Twitter and Social Security Scotland on Facebook that would be really helpful.

Please also let us know if you have a specific need in regards to communications products and we will do our best to accommodate this.

Social Security Scotland's Local Delivery Team are also on hand to attend events, meetings or staff training opportunities. Please contact us by email at localdelivery@socialsecurity.gov.scot in the first instance and we'll be in touch.

Best Start Foods

Today we opened for new applications for our Best Start Food payment, which replaces the UK Government's Healthy Start Vouchers in Scotland. Best Start Foods provides low income families on certain benefits with £17.00 every four weeks during pregnancy and for every child under three to spend on a range of healthy foods. This payment increases to £34.00 for children under one.

To provide a more convenient and flexible way of buying healthy foods we've replaced the previous paper vouchers with a new payment card. The new card can be used in most shops selling food that take card payments. We will be taking new applications via our freephone helpline on 0800 182 2222, by post and online at mygov.scot.

People already receiving Healthy Start Vouchers will continue to do so at this stage. When it is time for them to migrate to Best Start Foods, we will contact them directly explaining the changes and inviting them to apply for the new Best Start Food payment. This will allow us to safely introduce the new payment on a phased basis between now and March 2020.

We want to make sure that people are aware of the Best Start Food payment and changes being introduced so would appreciate any help you can provide in raising awareness of the payment through your organisation and networks. To help with this we've created the attached factsheet that provides details on how to apply and the eligibility criteria.

SignVideo launches the UK's first Deaf British Sign Language (BSL) Business Directory on their app, with a key difference. SignVideo is investing in Deaf BSL entrepreneurs offering them, free of charge, the opportunity to attract more Deaf BSL customers to their services through a simple click.

The new BSL Business Directory aims to promote and build a new mindset that focuses on the development of a BSL "Ecosystem" concept within the Deaf BSL community.

Deaf tradespeople and/or business owners wishing to register their business on the SignVideo app BSL Business Directory are welcome to add themselves by registering here or visiting www.signvideo.co.uk/business-directory. Download our app by searching "SignVideo" on the Apple or Play app store or from here.

From The Butterfly Project

The Butterfly Project delivers a specialist service to the Deaf community for the improvement of their overall health and wellbeing. It provides the individual with support to understand their condition/behaviour and offers tools to transcend it. It is a one-stop-shop and works fast making it economical and beneficial to both the individual and the service provider.

Created by MawdsLeigh and delivered by The Butterfly Project we are excited to offer an amazing new program called The Masks. We suffer because of the many Masks we wear and think in our mind we are ok because we are pleasing everyone else but, in the process, we ignore and neglect our natural "Self" and why we suffer mentally physically and emotionally. We gain weight, get depressed and stressed suffer from anxiety and harm ourselves in many ways!

By dropping the Masks you wear you can be what you truly are.

This program is the beginning of a beautiful journey and an insight into "Who am I? and in this experience you will find your freedom to design and live your life exactly the way you want to experience it!

If you are interested in booking a program and transforming your life or you are a company that supports Deaf clients contact me.

Dates for workshops or 1:1 sessions can be arranged as required.

From Scottish Government Census Rehearsal for 2021 to take place in October 2019

As part of our preparations for Scotland's Census 2021, NRS plan to undertake a public rehearsal in parts of Scotland later this year.

We are aiming to make the 2021 Census more digital and accessible, available for completion online, as well as on paper. The rehearsal will help us test our systems and process as we get ready for the Census.

We are currently planning for the rehearsal to take place on 13 October 2019. We will be asking people living in parts of Glasgow City and in Dumfries and Galloway, and Na h-Eileanan Siar to help us by taking part.

If you live in a rehearsal area, you will receive a letter in early October with more information about the rehearsal and how to participate.

Unlike the Census itself, participation in the rehearsal is not a legal requirement. We are asking householders in these areas to help us on a purely voluntary basis so that we can ensure things go smoothly for the Census.

Scotland's next Census, subject to the approval of the Scottish Parliament, will be held on Sunday 21 March 2021. This will be the 22nd census to take place since 1801 and the 17th to be managed independently here in Scotland. Please find a link to a FAQ for more information.

If you would like to be kept up to date with what is happening for the rehearsal and Scotland's Census 2021 please check our website and follow us on Facebook and Twitter @Scotcensus2021.

From NHS Greater Glasgow and Clyde eHEALTH INNOVATIONS

There are a number of innovative eHealth projects going live across GGC and last week we highlighted two which are helping patients get their care more locally. The first is a joint project with NHS Western Isles. One of our orthopaedic surgeons, Grzegorz Sianos, who specialises in hand surgery, is offering video conference clinics in collaboration with physiotherapists in NHS Western Isles that allows patients in the isles to receive their initial assessments via video, in order to prevent unnecessary travel to mainland Scotland.

The second eHealth innovation is the introduction of remote video consultations on physiotherapy for patients with respiratory conditions which has now gone live in the north sector of NHSGGC. Thanks to a new streamlined approach to physiotherapy advice patients can seek information virtually rather than physically attending a traditional clinic setting. Accessing the service through an app from a phone, PC or tablet, allows the patient to remain at home or work and get the physiotherapy advice and support they need for their condition.

You can find out about all these stories and more by visiting the website below:

New Resources for Advisors

We are pleased to share with you a selection of new resources. We hope these will help you when you're assisting someone who might have been discriminated against.

Employment Toolkit and Housing Toolkit – useful step-by-step guides for dealing with potential cases of discrimination.

The Commission recently funded Citizens Advice and Citizens Advice Scotland to produce these two online toolkits for those who are advising victims of discrimination – one focussed on employment and the other on housing.

Speaking about the toolkits, Citizens Advice Scotland's CEO Derek Mitchell said: "These toolkits are a great example of what joint working across organisations can achieve. They will enable people to identify instances of discrimination and take appropriate action, helping make our society fairer."

New Scotland guide on discrimination and the benefits system – a comprehensive resource for anyone working on discrimination issues in the context of benefits.

From ScotRail Queen Street Station Update

As you will know there are ongoing works at Glasgow Queen Street station, which will deliver a new fully accessible station by 2020. When the project work started, we issued some communications to advise customers of the disruption and also the measures we have put in place for customers who require assistance. As it is actually now over a year since these were issued, I think it is worthwhile reminding you of the assistance measures so that you can pass this message on to anyone who uses the station.

As part of our commitment to passengers requiring assisted travel during the works at Glasgow Queen Street Station, an interim Passenger Assist process was put in place in January 2018 at Queen Street Station.

The Passenger Assist stand is positioned by the North Hanover Street entrance of the station, and is staffed Monday to Saturday 07.00-21.00, and Sunday 10.00-18.00. If the desk is unstaffed then passengers will be advised to approach any member of station staff who will provide assistance.

Any customers who book assistance have the option to be dropped off at the 'drop-off/pick-up point' in front of the Millennium Hotel on George Square (either taxi rank or loading bay). A member of our staff can be requested to meet the customer at the drop off point so they can provide assistance into the station, where a member of station staff will ensure they are supported for onward travel.

Similarly, if a passenger arrives in Queen Street, they can request assistance to be escorted to the pick-up point by one of the passenger assist team.

During the works, we strongly recommend customers book assistance if they will require help from the taxi drop off point into the station.

ScotRail's social media team will be proactively reminding customers of the above arrangements.

Kilwinning Station Lift Access Update

I am pleased to advise you that as from Friday 23 August, 3 new passenger lifts will be brought into service at Kilwinning Station. These lifts will provide step-free access across all 4 of the platforms at the station, a huge improvement on the existing ramps down to the station platform from the adjacent road. Please share this across your networks to ensure as many of our patrons are made aware and able to benefit from these improved accessibility enhancements from 23 August 2019.

FUNDING OPPORTUNITIES

Keep Scotland Beautiful: Development Grants

To help Scottish community-led organisations to scope out a potential climate action project.

CCF Development Grants up to £500 (per organisation) are intended to:

From Inclusion Scotland

Scotland's Women Stand: Saturday 7th September, Scottish Parliament, Edinburgh

The Parliament Project is a non-partisan project to inspire, empower and encourage women to run for political office in the UK. Focusing on practical, hands-on training and support, they run workshops and webinars to demystify the process for women wanting to get involved in politics and online peer support circles to support women's political ambitions more deeply.

On Saturday 7th September, 400 women will gather at the Scottish Parliament for the Scotland's Women Stand event, a day full of inspiration, information and motivation, to explore their political purpose and path, and be a part of positive change towards the goal of gender equal political representation. The event is sold out, but the Parliament Project have set aside a limited amount of tickets for Inclusion Scotland. To get the special registration link for the event, please e-mail civicparticipation@inclusionScotland.org by midday Friday 23rd August.

As part of the event, staff from Inclusion Scotland will be making a short presentation on the Access to Elected Office Fund.

Childcare is available for this event. Babes in arms are welcome all day, while the Parliament crèche will be welcoming 1-5 year olds, and the mobile crèche at Dynamic Earth will take care of 6-12 year olds. Plans for childcare need to be in place by Friday 23rd August, so if you want to take advantage of this please request this when you get in touch.

From Paths For All

First Deaf Health Walk

The first British Sign Language Health Walk will be taking place on Saturday 7th September. The Walking for Health team at Paths for All have been working with Get Walking Lanarkshire to help develop Health Walks for the deaf community.

A Health Walk:

- is led by a trained volunteer on a risk assessed route
- is less than an hour long
- has a short warm up at the start, followed by a brisk walk and then a short cool down at the end
- welcomes new walkers who would benefit from being more active
- is a friendly group walk offered regularly
- is an opportunity to meet new people in your area and explore places you might not have been before

There are over 550 of these walks across Scotland every week. This will be the first one that is delivered for the deaf community by the deaf by the trained volunteer using BSL. We are keen to let you know about this development and would welcome you to join us for the health walk at Strathclyde Country Park. Please see the attached poster for all the details.

From Disability Equality Scotland Accessible Travel Event

Disability Equality Scotland would like to invite you to their Accessible Travel Event, please feel free to circulate this around relevant stakeholders.

It would be extremely beneficial to get local service providers round the table for this event. As you may be aware we have recently launched our first annual delivery plan <http://bit.ly/2xeCJl6> and a key part of the implementation is to work with local stakeholders to improve accessible travel.

Disability Equality Scotland are working closely with Transport Scotland to host a series of events to discuss accessible travel in different areas of Scotland. Their next event will be taking place in Irvine, North Ayrshire and we wanted to ensure a good representation from local transport providers.

I thought it would be helpful to provide you with some background. Disability Equality Scotland is working with Transport Scotland to deliver on the Accessible Travel Framework; the ten-year plan to improve public transport for disabled people. To do this, they have held events in different locations which bring together local disabled people and other equalities groups with local transport providers, to discuss local issues. This gives disabled people and service providers the opportunity to share their experience of some of the challenges they face when using and providing public transport and developing solutions to meet local needs.

Details of the next event:

12th September 2019 from 1.00pm – 4.00pm
Fullarton ConneXions,
Church Street,
Irvine KA12 8PE

The event will consist of presentations and group discussions, and there will be an opportunity for organisations to host a stall from 12noon.

There are limited spaces, and we would encourage you to send one or two representatives from your organisation to attend. To book, there is an Eventbrite page following this link:

<https://www.eventbrite.co.uk/e/accessible-travel-event-ayrshire-tickets-64799500049> or contact Disability Equality Scotland directly to book a place on 01259 270264.

We look forward to welcoming you on 12 September
Best wishes

From V&A Dundee

V&A Dundee Access Tours

V&A Dundee runs accessible tours for visitors with sensory loss. We offer monthly British Sign Language interpreted tours for D/deaf visitors and live described tours for those with a visual impairment.

These guided tours run on the first Monday and second Sunday of every month and have a capacity of 15 people. Tickets are free, can be booked online and be used by groups or individuals.

All tours run in the afternoon but the timings of each will vary slightly depending on the type of tour it is. We recommend people arrive 5- 10 minutes before the tour is due to start.

The three tours available are:

Creating V&A Dundee – the incredible story of the building’s design and construction*

The Scottish Design Galleries – our permanent collection showcasing over 500 years of Scottish creativity and innovation

Our major exhibitions – please check our website for more information

If you would like more information on any of these tours or what other facilities V&A Dundee has for visitors with sensory loss, please contact the museum on 01382 411611 or email access@vandadundee.org

In addition to our BSL interpreted tours, V&A Dundee has a limited number of portable assisted hearing devices and can use these to run any guided tour as an amplified tour, for individuals who are hard-of-hearing. If you would like to use our portable hearing loops, simply mention this at time of booking.

From Hearing Link Scotland LinkUp Groups – dates announced for 2019

Hearing Link will host two LinkUp groups in Scotland later this year for people living with hearing loss and their partners or family members.

The programme will take place on the following dates:

Edinburgh – 27 - 29 September 2019

If you are struggling to manage your hearing and would find it helpful to share your experiences with like-minded people, then please get in touch.

LinkUps are led by experienced volunteers who have a sensitive understanding of what it means to live with hearing loss, many of whom also have personal experience. These courses aim to give you, a partner, family member or friend the information to help you each better manage the changes hearing loss can bring.

Communication support will be made available including hearing loops and Speech-To-Text-Reporting (STTR) where you can follow what is being said on a screen.

Accommodation and meals are provided. All you need to cover is your own travel costs.

To find out more about LinkUps and to register your interest in attending, visit www.hearinglink.org/services/linkups.

Alternatively email helpdesk@hearinglink.org.

'Ageing in Scotland: Justice, Injustice & Protection'

How can we continue to make Scotland a just & safe place for older people?

4th September, Hilton Hotel (William Street) Glasgow

This year's conference will consider society's perception of older people in modern Scotland, and the ways in which support structure reflect the unique dynamics of older age in relation to harm, abuse and exploitation. We'll be considering criminal justice, adult support and protection, and other support structures, looking at how we can work towards a more just and safe Scotland for older people.

Contributors include:

Humza Yousaf (Cabinet Secretary for Justice)

Steven Fitzpatrick (a personal perspective of elder abuse)

Sandra McDonald (former Public Guardian)

Paul Greenwood (retired Deputy District Attorney, San Diego)

Kathryn McKay & Dr. Fiona Sherwood-Johnson (Stirling University)

Barrier to employment in early learning and childcare

Scottish Government has published a paper on “Barriers to employment in early learning and childcare: EQIA”.

This equality impact assessment (EQIA) was undertaken to consider barriers faced by those with protected characteristics to taking up employment in the early learning and childcare (ELC) sector and how we can use the opportunity of the expansion to increase the diversity of the ELC workforce. To read the paper, go to:

<https://www.gov.scot/publications/equalities-impact-assessment-considering-barriers-employment-early-learning-childcare-sector/>

Patient rights and responsibilities

Scottish Government has published the “Patient rights and responsibilities: charter” again.

The Charter of Patient Rights and Responsibilities (the ‘charter’) summarises what you are entitled to when you use NHS services and receive NHS care in Scotland, and what you can do if you feel that your rights have not been respected. For more information, go to:

<https://www.gov.scot/publications/charter-patient-rights-responsibilities-2/>

Legal Aid Reform

Scottish Government is consulting on Legal Aid reform. The Legal Aid (Scotland) Act 1986 created the Scottish Legal Aid Board, established the legislative basis for SLAB's powers and duties, and provided the structure of the current legal aid system in Scotland. The Act, now in its fourth decade, pre-dates devolution, human rights legislation, and other major reforms to the justice system. Since its introduction the Act, and the secondary legislation supporting it, have been subject to frequent changes in response to emerging domestic and European law that added to the complexity of the system. Over this time, many publicly funded services have undergone significant reform to move towards user-focused systems that plan and deliver services with the user at the forefront of design decisions.

To take part in the consultation, go to:

<https://www.gov.scot/publications/legal-aid-reform-scotland-consultation/pages/1/>

Closing date for the consultation is 19 September 2019.

VOLUNTEERING OPPORTUNITIES

deafscotland seeking volunteers

deafscotland are looking for volunteers to support their two major events in September and October 2019:

BSL Summit on Monday 23 September 2019 in Glasgow

Connect Us Too Summit on Thursday 10 October 2019 in Edinburgh

If you are interested in volunteering with us at both / either events, please get in touch with us.

For more information or if you have any questions, please get in touch with us by email: admin@deafscotland.org.

Childline / NSPCC deaf volunteer recruitment

Childline Glasgow is really keen to have more deaf volunteers trained and supporting children. The minimum age to apply is 16, you do not have to have any specific qualifications although you must be able to communicate in written English as currently we support children online through email and 1-2-1 chat (like instant messenger). The training is 10 weeks and will be fully interpreted in BSL.

We are also looking for communication shift supports – these would be hearing people who are either qualified BSL interpreter, have level 6 BSL or CODA's. Please see a video with two of our volunteers explaining their experience of this role. https://youtu.be/Fw_yqd1LozQ

If anyone you know is interested in attending please encourage them to contact: ahood@nspcc.or.uk

Social Security Experience Panels Open to new panel members now

The recruitment to the Scottish Government's Social Security Experience Panels is now open. We would be grateful if you could share information about this with your members or networks if they include people with experience of the benefits coming to Scotland.

The Scottish Government Experience Panels are 2,400 volunteers who are helping us to build a new social security system for Scotland. Panel members have real experience of the benefits coming to Scotland. Their insight and assistance is helping us to make sure that our new service works for the people who will use it.

If you have experience of the benefits coming to Scotland and you want to contribute to the way we deliver in Scotland, we are recruiting for more Experience Panel members now. We are looking for people with personal experience of:

- Personal Independence Payment
- Disability Living Allowance
- Attendance Allowance
- Carer's Allowance
- Funeral Expenses Payment
- Cold Weather Payment
- Winter Fuel Payment
- Industrial Injuries Disability Benefit

You can find out more about the Experience Panels and register to join at: <https://www.gov.scot/publications/social-security-experience-panels-faqs/> or by calling our Freephone number 0800 029 4974. People can register online, over the phone or by post.

Being a panel member is voluntary, and panel members will receive regular invitations to take part in focus groups, interviews and surveys. There is no obligation to complete any amount of work and panel members can participate as little or as often as they wish. We work hard to make participating as accessible as possible. Our work with panel members informs key decisions in the design of social security in Scotland.

Please feel free to forward this information on. If you would like us to send you some leaflets and paper copies of the registration form (with freepost envelopes), please get in touch and tell us how many you would like. If you would like us to come along to any events or provide content for things like newsletters, please email us.

If you have any questions, please do not hesitate to contact me.

Many thanks,
Eilidh

TRAINING

deafscotland Training

deafscotland offers a wide range of training: face-to-face and online - in areas such as deaf awareness; human rights; working with integrated boards; and communication for all.

We are putting together a new training programme. Members can book places and receive a discount. For more information, please go to our website: <http://deafscotland.org/what-we-do/training/>

AWARENESSbites

AWARENESSbites online Deaf Awareness course

<http://www.scod.org.uk/scod-training/awarenessbites/>

deafscotland has teamed up with AWARENESSbites to provide quality online learning and development to front-line and public facing staff who may not be able to attend face-to-face training courses.

We are offering two packages:

Learn at your own speed – login and logout when suits and restart where you left off.

The Package Contents:

Green package – £15 per user

- Aimed at those who require to know the basics and may come across a deaf or deafblind person occasionally. This package can easily be completed in under 2 hours.

Purple package – £28 per user

- Aimed at those who would require a little more detail and understanding and meet deaf or deafblind people more frequently within their day to day service provision. This package can take between 2.5 – 3.5 hours depending on activities taken.

If you would like to purchase packages, please contact us directly at admin@deafscotland.org.

We would consider an organisational discount that offers value for money for large numbers of users.

From Scottish Sensory Centre Meeting the social care needs of deaf children and young people Wednesday, 2nd October 2019

This course will be of interest to teachers of the deaf, speech and language therapists, educational psychologists, social workers, support staff, and anyone who supports deaf children to get the support they need. Deaf children and young people may face a range of challenges and risks that make them particularly vulnerable. Our one-day interactive workshop will help you understand the issues and relevant legislation and give you the tools to improve your support and practice. Through a mix of group work, presentations and case studies you'll learn approaches that address the needs of deaf children and their families.

You'll have opportunity to use the National Deaf Children's Society (NDCS) assessment framework and know how to ensure effective communication – helping you to promote positive outcomes for the deaf children and young people you work with.

Presenter: Christopher Mullen, Social Care Policy Adviser, NDCS

Course fee: £110

Venue: Scottish Sensory Centre, Edinburgh

Closing date: 11th September 2019

Course application forms are available to download from the following link:

POLITICAL QUESTIONS

Question S5W-23538 Health

Rona Mackay, Strathkelvin and Bearsden, Scottish National Party, Date Lodged: 30/05/2019

To ask the Scottish Government whether it will provide an update on plans for the contactSCOTLAND-BSL service provided to deaf and deafblind British Sign Language (BSL) users.

Answered by Clare Haughey (31/05/2019): contactSCOTLAND-BSL is a vital service provided to the deaf and deafblind British Sign Language (BSL) community. It allows deaf and deafblind users to make calls through an on-line interpreter. The Scottish Government will be providing additional funding for contactSCOTLAND-BSL so that from 1 June the service will expand to include calls to private numbers, in addition to public and third sector, and the service hours will increase to 24/7 throughout 365 days a year.

Motion S5M-18282

Brian Whittle, South Scotland, Scottish Conservative and Unionist Party, Date Lodged: 18/07/2019

That the Parliament congratulates the Scottish Minority Deaf Children's Society, which has received £9,636 from the Big Lottery Fund; understands that this will allow the group to provide four outings over the year for deaf children and their families, in partnership with the West of Scotland Deaf Children's Society; commends the group for their efforts, and wishes them continued success.
